

Check out our new sign-in page for plan members – mysunlife.ca

We're always looking for ways to make your members' online experience better and easier. Well, we've finished remodeling and on September 26, we're unveiling our new sign-in page for plan members – mysunlife.ca.

Recap of what's new

Same site. New name. – The sign-in page will have a new name – my Sun Life. It will also have a new URL: sunlife.ca/member will become mysunlife.ca

Note: The old URL will continue to work. If members use sunlife.ca/member to access the sign in page after September 26, they will be automatically redirected to mysunlife.ca.

New look. New design. – We're updating the look of the new sign-in page to match the sign-in page for sunlife.ca.

More info. More value. – The new look also allows us to provide members with tools, newsletters and links to commonly requested information right on the sign in page. Some of the links include:

Link	Where will it take members?
Learn more about the benefits of going online	To the Sign up to sun microsite where members can view e-tutorials and read what others are saying about our services
Understanding your coverage	To a new public communications page that includes our award winning Benefit Bulletin newsletter, previous plan member communications and new tip sheets for plan members
Take charge of your health	To an updated version of the Health & Work Resource Centre

How this affects you

The URL for the Plan Sponsor Services sign-in page you use to manage your company plan info (sunlife.ca/sponsor) will not change. If your company has a customized sign-in page, the URL and your customized sign-in page won't be impacted.

Communicating with your plan members

We created this communication for your members, to remind them about the changes to their sign-in page. We also placed an ad on the main sunlife.ca page and a message on the password protected member site.
