

New flyer helps educate and protect plan members from scams

Fraud scams are increasing in the financial sector, making plan members targets for phishing, pharming, social engineering, as well as loan, cheque and consumer reward program scams.

Fraudsters may be trying to obtain personal information by phone, email or through redirected websites. This new flyer helps plan members identify and protect their personal information by following measures to identify abuse of the Sun Life Financial name, logo or a variation of either.

It's important for plan members to understand how they may be targeted. Please share this flyer with your plan members so they can better protect their identity and report any suspicious behavior.

Questions?

Contact your Sun Life Financial group benefits representative.