

New digital solution now available to clients wishing to achieve healthy workplace objectives

Sun Life is pleased to announce that we have partnered with CoreHealth™ Technologies to connect Clients to innovative, digital wellness solutions designed to help organizations achieve their healthy workplace objectives and maximize the health, engagement and productivity of their workforce.

This means that moving forward, CoreHealth's platform and suite of health challenges will be available at a competitive price to Sun Life group benefits Clients through Integrated Health Solutions (IHS).

IHS is committed to helping Clients set and achieve their healthy workplace objectives for employers so their employees can live healthier lives. A key component of this commitment to our Clients is the focus on innovation with solutions that can help drive engagement, productivity and business performance.

As health and wellness programs and services are becoming increasingly digital and mobile-friendly, Sun Life is ensuring that we are supporting our clients with leading tools and programs to support their organizational health objectives.

If you're a Sun Life client wishing to add a wellness website and/or health challenges to your benefits and wellness program, please see this FAQ for more information about CoreHealth™ and the new platform features.
